

WIRELESS NETWORK IMPLEMENTATION IN DHARMA KARYA SCHOOL USING WINDOWS SERVER 2003

Albert Jonathan, 10404033, Yulina, SKom, MMSI

KKP, Information Systems, 2007

STMIK Jakarta STI & K

<http://www.jak-stik.ac.id>

Keywords: DHCP, IP, Wireless

Abstract:

In the current era of reform, the need for information is very important, especially in business and education. Therefore, the implementation of Wireless network technology is one of the appropriate solution in the exchange of information, both in internal and external environments of an organization. With this scientific writing, hopefully to help teachers and students to obtain the desired information. The author helps to build wireless networks in schools Dharma Karya using windows 2003 server. At this time works in Dharma school for information still using the old ways, such as through newspapers and books. So that the information obtained was incomplete. In completing this writing, the author helps to build wireless networks in schools Dharma Karya, to assist teaching and learning process. In this writing, the author connects with the local IP 125.161.0.1 Public IP is obtained after signing up and subscribing to an Internet Service Provider (ISP) speedy using the Windows 2003 Server. The need for information is very important, especially in education. Author hope With Wireless networks built on the Dharma school work, then the information about education can be delivered to the students well.

Bibliography (1994-2007)